IN THE EVENT OF ACCIDENT.

The first thing to do in case of serious accident is to send for a physician; in all other cases, the first aid treatment described below.

INJURY.—Apply weak ammonia, oil, iodine, or salt water.

BITES OF ANIMALS OR SNakes.—The cord tightly about the wound, or a hairpin, straighten out and bent at one end. Induce vomiting by placing foreigners on root of tongue, or get on hands and knees and cough. A piece of candy or sugar may be dissolved by sipping hot water. If an article be completely swallowed, do not give a purgative, but let the bowels alone for a day or two, and give plenty of bread, rice and milk; the article may be passed off without injuring the intestines.

HICCUP.—Take a drink of water and swallow while gasping, or a blust of ammonia, or vinegar and water.

FAINTING.—Place flat on back and loosen clothing; cold water to face; emetic, ammonia, or salts may be held under the nose. Carry warm and place the head lower than the rest of the body.

POISONING.—Place the head, apply ice or cold water to it, loosen the clothing.

BONES IN THE THROAT.—If impossible to remove with the fingers, try a blunt pair of scissors or a hairpin, straighten out and bent at one end. Induce vomiting by placing foreigners on root of tongue, or get on hands and knees and cough. If broken bone protrudes through the flesh, the exposed fragment may be dissolved by sipping hot water. If an article be completely swallowed, do not give a purgative, but let the bowels alone for a day or two, and give plenty of bread, rice and milk; the article may be passed off without injuring the intestines.

STROKE.—Remove patient to dry place, loosen clothing, apply ice or cold water to face and neck; sponge body with cold water.

SHOCK BY LIGHTNING.—If the muscles of respiration are temporarily paralysed, the same means for recovery should be used as in apparent death from drowning. Place the person in a current of fresh air, and ask cold water upon the face, neck and breast. Keep the feet warm, and place the head lower than the rest of the body.

BROKEN BONES.—Support the fragments with an elastic bandage.

CUTS.—If an artery is severed as indicated by spurt of blood, tie tightly about the wound the handkerchief above wound, insert a stone, and twist with a stick until bleeding stops. If a vein, as indicated by a slow, uniform flow of blood, tie below the wound. Bathe with equal parts of water and peroxide of hydrogen. Bind with clean bandage, or apply adhesive plaster.

HOW TO CLOSE A FRESH WOUND.—Prepare a solution of carbolic acid, half ounce to a quart of water; thread a needle with silk, wax, and place in the solution; wash your hands, the wound, and the surface with the solution.
