The establishment of residential colleges was envisaged from the foundation of the University and their affiliation was expressly provided for in the original Act of Incorporation. The Government set aside sites for the purpose within the area generally reserved for the University. The first of the colleges, Trinity (an Anglican foundation of 1870), was opened in 1872.

The first Warden of Trinity, Alexander Leeper, quickly built up a comprehensive system of college teaching. This was adopted by other colleges on their foundation, and remains a distinguishing feature of the Melbourne collegiate system. So too, do the large enrolment of non-resident students and the provision of significant college libraries, now supplemented by computer installations.

The college tutorial system (in which International House and Medley Hall also participate) is in general supplementary to teaching offered by the University's faculties, and is organized in part on an intercollegiate basis. Formal links with the University on academic matters are maintained through a Joint Committee of the Academic Board and the Heads of Colleges, and under a Statute of the University (S5.1.3), "any teacher in an affiliated institution" may be appointed to membership of a faculty. Heads of colleges sit in rotation as co-opted members of the University Council, and play a considerable part in the committee work of the University.

The other three colleges for which sites had been originally reserved were established as follows: Ormond (Presbyterian foundation, 1870), opened 1881; Queen's (Methodist foundation, 1887), opened 1888; Newman (Roman Catholic foundation, 1916), opened 1918.

A residential hostel for women students was opened by Trinity College in 1886, the first institution of its kind within Australia. Janet Clarke Hall, as it was in due course named, became an independent college in 1961.

University College (private non-denominational foundation, 1936) was opened in 1937 on a site made available by the State Government. From 1937 to 1975 it was known as University Women's College.

St Mary's College, originally a house of residence in Parkville for Catholic women students, obtained full college status in 1965 and moved to a new site made available by Newman College.

St Hilda's College (Methodist-Presbyterian foundation, 1963) opened in 1964 on a site made available by Queen's College.

Whitley College (Baptist foundation) was opened in 1965.

Ridley College, founded in 1910 as a place for the training of Anglican ordinands, and as a hostel for University men, became an affiliated college in 1966.

The Graduate Union of the University in 1962 established Graduate House as a postgraduate hall of residence. In 1972 the whole Graduate Union became an affiliated college of the University.

All Colleges of the University are now open to both men and women students.

General enquiries about the Colleges may be directed to the Intercollegiate Office, c/o University College, College Crescent, Parkville 3052. Telephone: (03) 347 9320. Trinity College

HISTORY

Trinity College occupies that portion of the University Reserve which was granted by the Government of Victoria to the Church of England under the authority of Parliament. The first formal steps towards its establishment were taken in 1853, the College was founded in 1870, the first students were enrolled in 1872, and the College was affiliated with the University in 1876. The principal founder of the College was the Right Reverend Charles Perry, first Bishop of Melbourne, who named the College for Trinity College, Cambridge, of which he had been a Fellow.

Although an Anglican foundation, the College has always freely admitted non-Anglicans to membership and applies no religious test. Parliament expressly confirmed this policy in the Trinity College Act 1927. The College was incorporated by Parliament through the Trinity College Act 1979.

The oldest building of the College is Leeper, opened in 1872 and intended for "the Provost's Lodge"; it now contains the Library and the College offices including those of the Trinity Theological School and the Trinity College Foundation. Its name commemorates the First Warden. Bishops', the first building designed for student use, was opened in 1878 and named for the first two Bishops of Melbourne, Perry and Moorhouse. Clarke, another residential building containing also a Junior Common Room and a Billiard Room, was built in two stages in 1883 and 1887, and named in gratitude to the two principal contributors to a successful appeal, Sir William Clarke and his brother Mr. Joseph Clarke. A great benefaction from Mr. John Sutcliffe Horsfall led to the building of the Horsfall Chapel; it was consecrated in 1917 as the chapel of the Holy Trinity. The Dining Hall, originally a simple wooden building, was rebuilt in stone in 1925 and enlarged again in 1955. Behan was opened in 1933 and named for the Second Warden (it was extended in 1963-1964). A Deanery was also built in 1933 and later used as a Warden's Lodge. The first post-war building was a Memorial ("Jeopardy", as it is commonly called), opened as a war memorial in 1958. A new Warden's Lodge was built in 1960. The most recent student building, Cowan (named for the Third Warden), was built in two stages between 1963 and 1965.

Trinity College now accommodates more than 260 resident students and about 25 College Officers and Tutors. Since 1877 it has also enrolled non-resident students, who attend classes in the College and enjoy other benefits of membership.

In 1883, the College became the first in Australia to offer membership to women students. A women's Hostel was opened in 1886 and the first Janet Clarke Building for women in 1890. The Hostel, known after 1921 as Janet Clarke Hall, was extended in 1927, 1930 and 1956. In 1961 arrangements were completed for the affiliation of Janet Clarke Hall as an independent College of the University and it thereafter ceased to be part of Trinity College. Trinity College has admitted both men and women students to resident and non-resident membership since 1974.

The remarkable tutorial system of the Melbourne Colleges was pioneered in Trinity College. The first Resident Tutor was appointed in 1876 (J. Winthrop Hackett) and the first endowment for a Lectureship was received in 1893.

The College Library, begun in the earliest days of the College and now known as the Leeper Library, aims to provide a useful working collection for undergraduates in the principal fields of undergraduate study represented in the College. It also contains primary research collections in Theology and Australiana. The Mollison Library of the Diocese of Melbourne is separately housed in Leeper; this collection is mainly theological.
The College has a Theological School, established in 1877 largely as a result of the efforts of the Right Reverend James Moorhouse, second Bishop of Melbourne. Although concerned to train candidates for the Anglican priesthood, its classes are open to any suitably qualified student. Since 1969 it has formed part of the ecumenical United Faculty of Theology.

The names of successive Principals and Wardens of Trinity College will be found in the "Lists of Former Principal Members" section of this Calendar.

COLLEGE TUITION
There is regular tuition throughout the year by resident and non-resident tutors in a wide range of University subjects. College Tutors are always available to give informal assistance and advice. The tutorial system is arranged in consultation with the University and other Colleges.

Trinity theological students (resident and non-resident) study for the degrees of the Melbourne College of Divinity within the Parkville United Faculty of Theology. There is at present no Faculty or Department of Theology within the University itself.

The College Library (the Leeper Library) provides a useful working collection in the principal fields of undergraduate study, together with specialist research collections.

RESIDENT STUDENTS
Applications are welcomed from students in their second and later University years (including graduate students) as well as from those entering the University for the first time. Early enquiry is advisable.

NON-RESIDENT STUDENTS
While applications are welcomed from students in all Faculties, it may be necessary to decline an application because the class in a particular subject is full. Non-resident students will not normally be admitted except for the whole year. Non-resident students are expected to attend the weekly tutorial classes for which they enrol.

Non-resident students may use the College Library and may take meals in Hall. Charges for meals may be ascertained from the College Office.

Non-resident students may join the Trinity College Associated Clubs by paying the annual subscription. This entitles them to use the Junior Common Room and related facilities, to take part in the activities of various College societies and to use College sporting facilities.
COLLEGE FEES

(a) Residents:
- Application Fee (payable on application for admission) $20
- Enrolment Fee (payable only on first being admitted) $400

The annual fee and charges for residence outside semester-time do not include week-day luncheons.

Four weeks' fees must be paid if a resident goes out of College during the course of a year without giving due notice. (An allowance will be made if the place is taken by another.)

The only additional recurring charge for all residents is for membership of the College Clubs ($110, payable in two equal instalments).

Special arrangements are made for authorized absences of one week or more during semester and for medical students in the later years of their courses.

COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIP AND MUSIC AWARDS

The College offers an unspecified number of scholarships to students in all years of University courses, for a year at a time.

Major Scholarships are for $900 per annum, and Minor Scholarships, $450. In cases of need these amounts may be supplemented by additional bursary assistance.

Entrance Scholarships are offered to students entering first-year courses who gain excellent results in the Victorian Certificate of Education Examination (or equivalent), demonstrate superior ability in a special Scholarship Examination held each year in October, and are recommended by their schools.

Senior Scholarships are awarded on the basis of results achieved in University courses the previous year. Senior Students entering College for the first time who wish to be considered for a Scholarship must apply in writing to the Dean and enclose details of their previous academic record.

Special Scholarships are available to the sons and daughters of Anglican clergymen of the Dioceses of Melbourne and Wangaratta.

17/8/94
Theological Studentships valued up to $1,500 per annum are available to ordination candidates who are sponsored by their diocesan bishops.

An Organ Scholarship of $1,100 per annum is offered. The duties of the Organ Scholar are to assist in the maintenance of the choir of Trinity College principally in accompanying choral services, to play the organ for other services in the chapel as directed by the Warden or the Chaplain, and to stimulate the playing and appreciation of music within the College.

Choral Exhibitions. The College offers twenty Choral Exhibitions, open both to College residents and to students who are not resident. Choral exhibitioners, of whom there are six sopranos, four altos, four tenors and six basses, make up the Trinity College Choir. Further details may be had from the Warden or the Director of Music.

APPLICATIONS: FURTHER INFORMATION
Applicants for resident membership are urged to lodge their applications by early November in the year prior to that of their proposed admission, even if at that date their applications must be provisional only.

For Application Forms, Scholarship Entry Forms and any further information apply to the Admissions Secretary, Trinity College, Parkville, Victoria 3052.
Janet Clarke Hall

HISTORY

Janet Clarke Hall provides residence, supplementary education and corporate life for members of the University. It has accommodation for men and women, and flats for single and married tutors.

Janet Clarke Hall, first known as Trinity College Hostel, began in 1896 as the first women’s college in Australia. It was founded by Dr Alexander Leeper and remained part of Trinity College until 1961 when it became independent.

The first building, opened in 1891, was named after Janet Lady Clarke, by whose generosity it was erected. A bequest of the late Mr W.T. Manifold enabled the Manifold Wing to be added in 1927. The building was further enlarged in 1930 with the opening of the Traill Wing, named after the principal donor. Since then, the Enid Joske Wing was completed in 1956 and the Lilian Scantlebury Wing in 1962. Extensive modernization was carried out from 1965 to 1975.

There are 80 undergraduate and 10 postgraduate students in residence.

The Centenary volume Janet Clarke Hall 1886-1986 (by L. Gardiner, pub. Hyland House, 1986) may be purchased from the College Office.

Ormond College

HISTORY

Ormond College occupies the site, adjoining that of Trinity College, reserved by the Government of Victoria and offered to the Presbyterian Church of Victoria for the founding of a residential college “of and within the University of Melbourne”. In November 1877, that Church decided to found such a College, and appointed eight trustees and eight other representatives of the Church to give effect to the decision. In October 1878, Mr Francis Ormond offered to increase an original promise to £10,000, provided that a total of £20,000 were raised for the building of the College. With acceptance of this generous offer was associated the naming of the College; and the first Council of the College was appointed, by the addition to the original committee of eight representatives of subscribers. The foundation stone was laid by His Excellency the Governor of Victoria (the Marquis of Normanby) on 14th November, 1879. The original building was the present main front of the College. Mr Ormond making special provision for the clock tower.

John Henry MacFarland, Master of Arts of Queen’s College, Belfast, and of St. John’s College, Cambridge, was appointed Master of the College which was formally opened by His Excellency the Governor on 18th March, 1881. At the opening ceremony it was intimated that Mr Ormond had made “the splendid and generous offer to bear the whole cost of the building of the College”. In 1881, Mr Ormond expressed his ambition to go on enlarging the College with the hope of seeing “150 or, at any rate, 100 students lodged within its walls”.

In 1885, the South-West Wing and a temporary Dining-Hall were opened by Mrs Ormond. The original Victoria Wing (facing north-east) was opened in the year 1889.

On 5th May, 1889, the Hon. Francis Ormond died. Up to that date, he had contributed over £40,000 to the founding of the College; and his testamentary dispositions increased the total of his benefactions to the College to upwards of £100,000 - partly direct bequest, and partly residuary.

The College Hall (with domestic quarters adjoining) and the Master’s Lodge were then added, and came into use in 1893.

Immediately after the First World War, steps were taken to complete the main College building - so as to include the MacFarland Memorial Library,¹ and a Students’ Common Room with equal floor space. The new buildings were officially opened by His Excellency the Governor of Victoria (the Earl of Stradbroke) on 23rd May, 1922. After that date the College was able to accommodate about 135 resident students.

On the death of Sir John MacFarland (22nd July, 1935), the College became the residuary legatee of his estate from which it eventually benefited by about £25,000 (including upwards of £8,000 received for Foundation Scholarships in 1932).

Other substantial benefactions, since the foundation of the College, are not expressly named in this brief historical note.

From the beginning, the policy was adopted of placing no conditions but those of good character and adequate scholarship upon membership of the College.

² Dr MacFarland (as he was then) had retired from the Mastership at the end of 1914.
The College provides "accommodation for the efficient conducting of the Theological Hall" of the Church, whose students may be resident members of the College. The Theological Hall is independently financed; in particular, part of a bequest of £30,000 from John Dickson Wyselaskie provided, in 1887, the Wyselaskie Building, which now includes four residences for theological professors. A further residence for this purpose was built in 1929.

With the building of a new Master's Lodge in 1958 and the conversion of the old Lodge into students' quarters an additional twenty students were accommodated. In 1961 a new wing (Picken Court) was built to accommodate some 92 students and 6 tutors.

A seven-storey residential building (McCaughhey Court) was opened in 1968, accommodating 48 undergraduates, and 20 tutors, fellows, and academic visitors. The College acquired four Parkville houses in 1984, bringing the total number in residence in Ormond to 350.

The publication Ormond College: Centenary Essays (ed. S. Macintyre, M.U.P., 1984) may be purchased from the College Office.

SCHOLARSHIPS AND EXHIBITIONS
An examination for resident scholarships and non-resident exhibitions, open to students entering the University in the following year, is held annually. These scholarships and exhibitions are, in general, free of all restrictions.

Any student already in attendance at the University, who wishes to be elected to a College scholarship or exhibition, is requested to communicate with the Master. In such cases the award is based chiefly upon the student's University record.
Queen's College

HISTORY

Queen's College is built on the portion of the University Reserve granted to the Methodist Church by the Government of Victoria. It was not until 1878 that the Conference resolved to avail itself of the reserve and took the first steps towards building the College. Through the efforts of the Reverend William Abraham Quick, regarded as the founder of the College, it was possible to lay the foundation stone on 16th June, 1887. This ceremony was performed by His Excellency the Governor of Victoria, Sir Henry Brougham Loch. The year 1887 being the jubilee of Queen Victoria's accession to the throne, the College was named Queen's College. The College opened on 14th March, 1888, with a total of 18 students. The first Master, the Rev. Dr. E. H. Sugden, held office for 40 years.

In 1889 extension of the building became necessary, and on 2nd April, 1890, the enlarged buildings, which included the Dining Hall and 6 rooms, were opened by Sir Matthew Davies. In 1905 further additions were made to the building, and again in 1910 when the eastern facade was completed.

After the First World War, the pressure upon the accommodation of the College was such that further extension became necessary. Largely through the advocacy and generous support of Mr. J.T. Tweddle, the central tower and a new wing (which bears his name) on the north side of the College were completed in 1923, at a cost of over £50,000, and were opened by Mr. W.T. Hattam. In 1930 a science laboratory was built through the generosity of Messrs A.M. and G.R. Nicholas.

Since 1958 the College commenced a building and renovation programme which has further expanded and improved its facilities. The "Raynor C. Johnson" wing was built in two stages, the first being opened by the Prime Minister (Rt. Hon. R. G. Menzies) in 1960, and the second in 1968. A new dining hall (Eakins Hall) and kitchen block were completed in 1964, and Kernick House, a block of flats for married as well as single students was built in 1975. In 1969 the College began a programme of renovation of the rooms and services in the old wings, providing comfortable single bedroom studies of a comparable standard to the Johnson Wing. These renovations were completed in 1979. The old Science Laboratories have been converted and renovated as a recreational centre providing music practice rooms, a T.V. room, a party room and kitchenettes, and a billiards room. The College celebrated its centenary in 1987 with a new library building, the "Owen Parnaby" wing.

Queen's College is governed by a Council of up to 28 members responsible to the Victorian Synod of the Uniting Church, and is composed of representatives of the Church, the University, the Fellows and Tutors, and present and past members of the College. In academic matters the Master is advised by the Fellows of the College, academically distinguished former members of the College elected on the recommendation of a Fellows Meeting. Queen's College has been traditionally a male college, but from 1973 it has accepted enrolments from both men and women students. The College has always been open to both resident and non-resident students without regard to their religious beliefs.

COLLEGE TUITION
Tutorials are held in the College and the College participates in the inter-collegiate tutorial programme, thus making available tutorial assistance in most subjects for which students enrol. These tutorials are supplementary, and not alternative, to University lectures and tutorials. Enrolment by non-resident male and female students is encouraged.

RESIDENT SCHOLARSHIPS AND BURSARIES
Resident scholarships to the value of over $50,000 and non-resident exhibitions valued at $240 each are awarded annually. Some of these are awarded on the basis of the scholarship examination held in October each year. This is intended for those who are coming up from school and proposing to start a university course in the following February. The remainder are awarded in February at a meeting of the Fellows of the College. These awards are based on University results. All enrolled resident or non-resident students of the College are regarded automatically as candidates, together with any students outside the College who wish their University results to be considered for a scholarship or exhibition.

Some scholarships are restricted in their award by the terms of the endowment. Keith Macartney Scholarships are restricted to students enrolled in the faculty of Arts, the A.J. Roberts Scholarship ($500 p.a.) to students from Wesley College, the E. J. Smart Scholarship ($500) and the Howard Hitchcock Scholarships ($500 p.a.) to students from the Geelong College.

Scholarships and exhibitions are awarded for one year only, but a student may be re-elected year by year throughout the University course to a scholarship of the same or different value. Resident scholarships are paid in two equal instalments by way of deduction from the first and second semesters' fees.

ROOMS, EQUIPMENT, ETC.
Rooms are allotted to resident students in order of seniority, subject in each case to the Master's approval. The rooms are provided with essential furniture and each has a telephone. Students must bring their own sheets, pillow cases and towels (four of each).

The College Council reserves the right to review the fees at the end of each semester.

The enrolment fee of $300 is payable by all resident students upon joining the College. This includes life membership of the Wyvern Society.

The above fees cover all College charges for residence, tuition, board, etc. during College semesters.

Residence in College during vacations requires permission from the Master. A vacation charge at the rate of $33 per day will be made for the period of residence outside that covered by the College semesters.
Where, as in the clinical years of the Medical course, the period of hospital residence may involve absence during the College semesters, an allowance of $110 per week for such period will be made. An adjustment will also be made for prolonged absence through illness.

A half semester's notice is required of a student's intention to leave College during the course of the year, unless there are exceptional circumstances.

FURTHER INFORMATION
For further information as to residence and tuition, or as to scholarships and exhibitions, application should be made to the Master, Queen's College, Parkville, Victoria 3052.
Newman College

HISTORY

Newman College is situated in the section of the University Reserve granted by the Government of Victoria to the Catholic Church in the Crown Grant of 2nd October, 1882. The foundation stone was laid by the Archbishop of Melbourne (the Most Reverend Thomas Joseph Carr, D.D.), on Pentecost Sunday, 11th June, 1916. It was founded by the generosity of the Catholic people of the State of Victoria, stimulated by the gift of £30,000 for bursaries from Thomas Donovan, Esquire, of Edgecliffe, Sydney, New South Wales, and cost over £90,000. The first section of the building was designed by Walter Burley Griffin and features a magnificent dining rotunda. The Chapel was added just before the Second World War and, after the war, additional building programmes doubled the accommodation for students so that today the College provides for an enrolment of 225 undergraduates and graduates.

The Library, which consists of more than 40,000 volumes, comprises the valuable collections of W.L. Bowditch, Esquire; The Rev. Patrick O'Reilly; The Rev. E.J. Kelly, D.D.; and John McMahon, Esquire. It has been enriched by the addition of the Bevan collection of Australian books, the O'Donnell collection of Irish books, the Hackett collection, and the Campion collection.

St Mary's College

HISTORY

St Mary's College was established in 1918 as an annexe to Newman College and was known as St Mary's Hall, a residence for Catholic women university students. It was located on a site at some distance from the University in The Avenue, Parkville and provided accommodation for ten students.

With the growing need for more accommodation, a new Catholic women's College was built in 1965 between Newman College and the University, on land which was part of the section of the University reserve generously granted to the Catholic Church by the Government of Victoria in 1882, the land being designated for this purpose by the courtesy of the Archbishop of Melbourne. The present College was opened in 1966 as an Independent College directly affiliated by Statute to the University of Melbourne with accommodation for 90 students. With the addition of the North Wing in 1969 and the West Wing in 1973, the College was finally completed. Two outstanding features of the beautiful Georgian style building are the Library and the Chapel, the latter an example of the incomparable craftsmanship of Schulim Krimper.

The College had traditionally been a women's College but from 1977 it has accepted enrolments from both men and women students. It provides accommodation for 158 residents comprising graduate and undergraduate students and tutors.

St Hilda’s College

HISTORY

St Hilda’s College is situated on College Crescent between Queen’s College and Ormond College. It was built as a result of a generous gift of land by Queen’s College, with the approval of the Methodist Conference of Victoria and Tasmania and monies donated by the general public and the Commonwealth and State Governments.

In 1959 an Interim Council, drawn from the Wyverna Club of Queen’s College and the Ormond Women’s Association and including representatives from the Methodist and Presbyterian Churches, drew up a Constitution which was later ratified by the governing bodies of the two Churches concerned. The College was opened for students on the 26th February, 1964, and the buildings were officially opened on the 11th April, 1964, by the Rt Hon. Sir Robert Menzies, K.T.

Whilst the College was originally founded for women, male students were first admitted in 1973 and there are now equal numbers of men and women students in residence. Following the formation in 1976 of the Uniting Church in Australia, St Hilda’s College came under its auspices.

Whitley College

HISTORY

Whitley College is situated on land in Royal Parade owned by the Baptist Union of Victoria and reserved by it for the establishment and conduct of a College affiliated with the University of Melbourne.

In 1955 the Assembly of the Baptist Union decided to establish an affiliated college of the University as a centenary project of the Union and the foundation stone was laid in the centenary year 1962. The College was opened on 27th February, 1965 by the Prime Minister, the Rt Hon. Sir Robert Menzies, K.T. It is named after Dr W. T. Whitley who established the first Baptist Theological College in Australia in 1891. The College continues to provide theological education and theological students may be resident members of the College.

The initial circular building housed 105 male students but in 1972 with the opening of an additional wing, the College became co-educational. The College now accommodates 127 students and 11 resident tutors.

The College has been the recipient of three large benefactions:

(a) The Charles Hedly Sanham Memorial Fund, the income of which is in excess of $15,000, and is to be applied to the training of young men for the Baptist ministry;

(b) The Alexander Crocket Estate in excess of $640,000, to be applied to the religious purposes of the College; and

(c) The Margaret Crocket Estate in excess of $150,000, to be applied to the College Building Fund.

Ridley College

HISTORY

Ridley College was founded in 1910, partly to provide training for evangelical Anglican ordinands, and partly to provide a hostel for University men. Throughout its history it has preserved this dual character. It is an Anglican foundation, but residence is open to non-Anglicans.

The beginnings of the College were humble. A boarding house, called “Norwood” (which may still be seen opposite Janet Clarke Hall) was rented, and became a College housing five students. The College developed, however, and soon a property called “Kooringa” further down Sydney Road was purchased (now alas demolished to make way for a motel), and the College was set up on what was expected to be its final site. It continued to grow, however, and “Kooringa” had to be sold in order to move to a larger site where the College is now located on the corner of Walker Street and The Avenue. At first there was ample accommodation in the large house, “Cumnock”. But as the College grew and as money became available, other buildings were erected.

From time to time the suggestion was made that Ridley be more closely linked with the University than at its foundation. Sometimes it was thought it should be connected in some way with Trinity, sometimes that it should be connected with the University itself. But all such proposals came to nothing, until in 1965 application was made to the University Council for acceptance as an affiliated College. After a seeming delay while negotiations took place, this was agreed to and the College began 1966 as one of the University of Melbourne’s affiliated Colleges.

Graduate Union

(INCLUDING GRADUATE HOUSE)
The Graduate Union of the University of Melbourne Incorporated is an Association for graduates who wish to retain close links with the University of Melbourne. It offers club, dining, residential, social and educational facilities and opportunities for its members in return for a very low annual subscription, and is affiliated to the University as a uniquely postgraduate college.

OBJECTS
The principal objects of the Graduate Union as set out in its Statement of Purposes are:
(a) to promote the welfare of the University of Melbourne
(b) to encourage and assist higher education, especially postgraduate studies and research
(c) to foster academic, educational and cultural relations between graduates
(d) to provide a corporate association to carry out these objects.

RELATIONSHIP TO ALUMNI ASSOCIATION
The Graduate Union is separate from the Alumni Association of the University of Melbourne. Although the two complement each other and work co-operatively, there are important differences. Whereas the Alumni Association is part of and administered by the University, the Graduate Union is an autonomous organization. Graduates are encouraged to join both organizations; a reduced joint subscription is offered. (See "University of Melbourne Alumni Association" in "Announcements" section of this Calendar.)

MEMBERSHIP
Graduates and diploma holders of the University of Melbourne, or of other recognised tertiary institutions who are resident in Victoria, are eligible for ordinary membership. The present membership is about 4,000.

New Membership
New graduates in their year of first graduation may join the Association at a prescribed reduced rate. Concession rates apply to country, interstate and overseas subscriptions. Of particular interest is the reduced joint subscription offered to those who join both the Alumni Association and the Graduate Union.

Subscription renewal notices are sent annually, with reminders as necessary. The current subscription categories and rates are listed on a separate sheet available from the Graduate Union office.

Life Membership
The Life Membership subscription may be paid at any time either in one lump sum or in three successive annual installments of the sum fixed at that time.

HISTORY
The Graduate Union originated as the Melbourne University Association which was established in 1911. It was affiliated with the University Union between 1938 and 1952 as the Graduates’ Section of the Union. Since 1953 it has functioned as the Graduate Union. It was affiliated as a college of the University of Melbourne in 1971.

The Graduate Union became an Association under the Associations Incorporation Act in 1991.

THE GRADUATE COUNCIL
This consists of a President, a Vice-President with members elected by the membership for three-year terms, two nominees of the Vice-Chancellor and up to two co-opted members. A Chairman is appointed annually from among the elected members. The Council controls the Graduate Union through a number of committees or boards. A list of current Council members is available from the office at any time.

THE STAFF
The Graduate Union employs a Chief Executive Officer, who is Warden of Graduate House, and who is assisted by a House Manager, who is also Assistant Warden of Graduate House, and such other secretarial, administrative, domestic, catering or other staff as are deemed necessary from time to time.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER
Ian R. Barrah. BA BSc TSTC

GRADUATE HOUSE
Graduate House was opened in 1962 as a small hall of residence for postgraduate workers, whether Australian or from overseas, predominantly for those engaged in higher degree studies or research. Graduate House is controlled by a board acting for the Graduate Council, which is the Board of Directors of the Graduate Union. Graduate House is the residential facility and administrative base of the Graduate Union.

The terrace of seven Victorian houses has been developed in successive stages (in 1962, 1965 and 1971), and now houses approximately 50 postgraduate residential members on a "dinner, bed and breakfast" basis. It also provides a corporate centre for the entire Graduate Union membership by way of dining-room, common-rooms, library and other facilities for public and private entertainment. Provision is also made for a small number of short-term visiting academics, scholars and graduates. Residents come from all states and from overseas, and the atmosphere is one of cultural as well as academic sharing.

Eligibility for Admission
The House Board has wide powers to admit any class of graduate as a resident. Details are available from Graduate House.

Applications for residence should be made on the appropriate form obtainable from and re-directed to the Warden at Graduate House, 224 Leicester Street, Carlton, Victoria 3053. The telephone number is 347 3428.

PROPERTY DEVELOPMENT AND THE BUILDING FUND
The Graduate Union owns other properties adjoining Graduate House. Re-development and expansion of facilities will occur as funds become available. Tax deductible donations are marked for the Building Fund for this purpose.

DINING RIGHTS
All non-residential members have dining rights within the public areas of Graduate House. There is a luncheon (12.30-2.00 p.m.) and a 3-course dinner (6.00-7.30 p.m.) and the meals are highly regarded.

The dining-room is open Monday to Friday throughout the year, except over the Christmas-Australia Day holiday period. Members are encouraged to bring guests. There is a liquor permit for diners to bring their own wines, and small functions and parties for members and guests can be catered for by prior arrangement.

SOCIAL AND EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES
Various social events, designed to encourage members and guests to use the facilities and dine in the house, are arranged from time to time.
GRADUATE UNION

Monthly luncheons are held in the Graduate House dining-room each month from March to December, with a variety of interesting speakers. Occasional dining-in nights are arranged to enable members to hear an interesting guest speaker and other events are arranged according to interest or demand, and there are always opportunities to extend the activities in response to new challenges.

PUBLICATIONS
A Newsletter, The Melbourne Graduate, is published by the Graduate Union quarterly or as frequently as the occasion requires, and posted to members. The Gazette, principal periodical organ of the University, is sent regularly to members without further charge by arrangement with the University Alumni Association.

TRAVEL AND OVERSEAS AFFILIATIONS
There are reciprocal agreements in the following cities: London, Edinburgh, New York, New Haven, Boston, Toronto, Vancouver, San Francisco, Auckland, Singapore, Canberra and Hong Kong. The list, however, is liable to change and is constantly being reviewed. Enquiries can be directed to the House Manager at Graduate House, who can arrange cards or letters of introduction. A signed indemnity is sometimes required.

THE GRADUATE FUND
One of the activities of the Graduate Union is to solicit tax deductible donations from members for general University purposes. This Fund is used for University purposes, as arranged between the Vice-Chancellor and the Graduate Council. The University’s Graduate Secretariat, which became the Alumni and Development Unit, was established partly from the Graduate Fund.

ENQUIRIES
All enquiries should be addressed to the Chief Executive Officer of the Graduate Union, at the University address, Parkville, 3052. Local enquiries can be made by telephoning 347 3428 or University extension 6903. Graduate House is located at 224 Leicester Stret, in close proximity to the main campus.
